Letter Contest Is Sponsored by League

In connection with the series of radio programs "Books Bring Adventure," being sponsored by Junior League of Kingston for children, the league will hold a contest for the best letter written by a child to Station WKNV explaining which story he or she liked best and why. All letters must be into the studio by April 28. Although this is not the closing date for the series the contest will include the stories up to that time.

So far five stories have been broadcast, "Mischievous in Foz" the story of Mousa and the good djinns and evil djinns; "Tray Lines North," telling of two Canadian boys and their fight with an enormous timber wolf; "Gift of the Forest," about Bim, a boy from an Indian compound and his adventures in the jungle; "Captain Kidd's Cow" the tale of four boys in a broken-down houseboat on the Mississippi; and "Struggle Is Our Brother," the story of how Russian guerrillas blow up the great Amov dam.

The story to be heard tonight at 5:45 o'clock will be "When the Typhoon Blows" telling of a fisher boy from a Chinese village who learns the meaning of patriotism when he and his grandfather are bombed out of their home. The boy and his sampan enable a Chinese lieutenant to get important information about Japanese troop movements. Written by Elizabeth Foreman Lewis it is published by John C. Winston Co.

Hilda Cornelia Gerald Is Bride at Easter Wedding

The Methodist Episcopal Church in New Paltz was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Miss Hilda Cornelia Gerald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus D. Gerald of New Paltz, to Christine Kermit Condon, son of U. Rae Condit and the late Mrs. Gertrude Grell Condit of Poughkeepsie. Easter Sunday evening, the altar was attractively decorated with baskets of forsythia, yellow snapdragons, palms and carnations. The church was lighted with candles.

The Rev. John W. Follette, the long friend of the bride's family officiated at the double ring ceremony. Miss Margaret Newton, organist of the church, and friend of the bride, played for the service.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of turquoise crepe with gold accessories and carried a white Bible with markers of ribbons and yellow roses. Her headpiece was an heirloom mantilla of gold Brussels lace held in place by yellow ribbons. Miss Myra H. Gerald was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a gown of shell pink crepe with lavender accessories and carried a cascade bouquet of sweetpeas. Her headpiece was a pink floral arrangement. The bride's mother wore a gray print dress with black accessories and a corsage of red roses.

George Braun of Poughkeepsie was best man. Ralph Martin of New Paltz was the usher. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Condon stood at the entrance to the church and greeted their friends. A reception for the immediate families and bridal party was held at the Old Fort. Decorations were in spring flowers and white candles. Mr. and Mrs. Condon left for a wedding trip. The bride is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard V. Roach of 35 Stuyvesant street, Kingston.

FATHER TIME PUZZLED

Thomas Mann, the German writer who a few years ago abandoned Germany to its fate and settled in this country, wrote a book in which he observed repeatedly that "there is something strange in the nature of time," something that seems impossible for the human mind to understand. Where, does time come from, and where does it go? How is it produced? Is it a reality or a merely imaginary thing produced by the human mind? We're asking you!

Such puzzling thoughts may come to the minds of many people as they consider what people are doing now with poor old Father Time. Our own arbitrary changes in chronology, made to fit our convenience of our whims, are obvious at this time of year. Even conservative old England has just moved her clocks forward one hour, thereby inaugurating what is called "double summer time," because it is two hours ahead of "Greenwich mean time" and six hours ahead of "United States Eastern War Time." Through the winter, London reports, Britain "has operated on summer time."

This is where a mere newspaper man, concerned only with getting his paper out on time, gets beyond his depth and is capable of nothing more than a few last bubbles. We may soon be obliged to disregard the sun, moon and stars entirely and adopt a simpler system.

SOFT-SOAPING GERMANS

The "Wily Ulysses" of ancient Greek tradition, who went everywhere and saw everything and could always find a way out of trouble, would have appreciated a trick just reported, that was played on their German captors by American prisoners recently.

The Yanks, more than a thousand in number, were kept in a prison camp near Reichenheim, southwest of Kassel, and were having a tough time of it. But not quite so tough as they made their captors believe.

They hadn't much to eat, but they had soap. So they used it as a peaceful weapon and means of escape. They chewed their soap until they foamed at the mouth, and thus persuaded their Nazi captors that they were dangerously sick. Then when the fooled Germans marched off with their other prisoners, 1,279 men of the soap brigade made their get-away. That will be a memorable story for soldiers of this war to tell their grandchildren.

READING ABOUT PEACE

The best-selling book in Chicago stores is reported to be Sumner Welles' "Intelligent American's Guide to the Peace." This is pretty good for a city generally understood to be the home of the strongest isolationist forces in the United States. Evidently Chicagoans, like other good Americans, do not believe in limiting themselves to one side of a case.

DIVIDED FAMILY

"Hello, Mama; hello, Hans." With these words Wilhelm, an American soldier of German birth, whose company had reached his native town and who had secured leave for a day, greeted his mother and brother in his old home.

The newspaper story stopped here. It should have gone on and told how Wilhelm's German relatives took his appearance in the uniform of a hostile army. Could he make them understand why he was fighting Hitler and the Nazis? Can he and his mother and brother come to a common meeting-ground on the issues of the war?

Wilhelm and his family present in miniature the whole problem of the reeducation of Germany.

JAP FAMILY SUICIDE

One of the main troubles that make war against the Japanese so difficult is that, knowing little or nothing about "civilized warfare," they assume that our own fighting men are savages, and act accordingly. That fact seems to account for the incredible practice of killing their families and themselves, as they have frequently been observed to do, when American fighting men approach them.

As the war proceeds, it may be assumed

TEARS OF GRIEF

The principal reason in national politics and international relations for our confusions is that what appeared to be eternal moral standards have, in a third of a century, lost their hold. This may sound like a "preachy" approach to political and economic problems, but it is nonetheless true. With standards of truth and responsibility, demoralized, men function without guidance.

For instance, when Bert Andrews of the New York Herald-Tribune, according to the best standards of American journalism, disclosed the secret agreements at Yalta over the number of votes in San Francisco, the country was shocked that its highest officials should have been careless of literal truth. But they need not have been shocked. Truth has long since, in most countries, given way to expediency; responsibility to power and position. The lie, black or white, has ceased to be dishonorable and abhorrent.

The point I wish to make is that even more than a political, social or economic revolution, we have undergone and continue to live through a moral revolution. And the danger is greater because a loss of essential morals can produce degradation in an entire people. Loss of character, lethargy, dependence, shamelessness appear in high places. From these a people recovers much more slowly than from economic or political errors.

The other day, I wrote a protest against Russia's enslavement of the Germans and naturally there were complaints from two groups: from those who hate Germans and from those whose education is derived from the false conversation at Lindy's and the Stork Club, two universities that have yet to produce a prophet or a philosopher.

"Look!" they said, "we weep over Germany!" And should one not weep over Germany which deposed itself in a mass suicide that has turned one of the loveliest countries into a desert of rubble? Should one not be sorry for a decent folk who deposed themselves into a fanatical horde under a depraved leadership? Yet, it was not Germany that worried me as much as slavery. Can it matter who is the slave or who does the enslaving? Slavery is always, under all circumstances, immoral. Accepting that as a standard, we can proceed politically and economically to punish the Germans. If we reject that moral criterion, we can only punish ourselves by failing to resist our own degradation.

How wonderfully clear is the mind of the moral man. I look at the picture of a man 89 years old who has lost his son. That son, a Major-General in our army, is ruthlessly shot by a German while being taken prisoner. The father has lived to see his son a Major-General, an honored person; he now reads of his son's heroic death. Shall he be angry? Shall he be bitter? Shall he call for hate and vengeance?

Not this father! In the ancient traditions of his people, in the noble philosophy of Hillel, this old man, father of Major-General Maurice B. Rose, spoke in the language of Micah, "To do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

Let us repeat the words of Rabbi Samuel Ruse on the news of the death of his son, shot by a German while being taken prisoner of war. Let us think of those words as the prayer of a Godly man at the moment of his deepest grief:

"It is well that, since this had to be, it happened in the week of Passover. As Jehovah said, 'When I see the blood, I will pass over you,' he spoke not only to the Jews but to all peoples, to the Gentiles, to Americans, to Germans, to all peoples. When I see the sacrifice, the blood, I will pass over you."

"And so, may Jehovah accept this sacrifice and see the blood and pass over all peoples for their sins. May those cynics who have not lost a son nor even been in peril themselves ponder this lofty love of man for man, for friend and foe, which this father spoke in the tears of his grief."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

THE AGING OF MAN

A physician meeting one of his patients was told by the patient that he was not going to consult him any more for a physical examination because he had read a book which stated that your life span was determined at birth and there was nothing you could do about it. No matter what infection or disease attacked you, you'd live just as long and just as well without treatment!

The physician stated that the patient had not read the book correctly or that the author was not a physician or trained in physiology (healthy body processes) or in pathology (diseased organs). It would mean that an infected throat which causes rheumatism and heart disease, infection of teeth, sinuses, gums and gall bladder would remain untreated with the dire consequences—crippling and death. The physician stated, however, that the start the babe had in life from his parents was important to the health and life span. It was true that the aging process really begins at birth.

In Science, Dr. William D. B. MacNider, University of North Carolina, states that aging of man commences not at 40 but from the moment of union of the male sperm cell with the female germ cell, and by the time the child is ready to be ushered into this world it is able to fight its way.

In man certain families age more rapidly than others; the individuals reach maturity more rapidly and changes (age changes) come on at relatively earlier age periods.

In infancy and childhood, over and above accidents represented by infectious diseases, there was formerly a high death rate due to imperfect feeding and nutrition disturbances. Careful investigation of children, their life processes and their aging was made. The result has been the saving of the lives of hundreds of thousands of children and increasing the life span by 10 to 15 years. This branch of medicine is called Pediatrics. And just as investigation of aging and the life processes of children prolonged life, so now is a similar investigation being carried on of individuals who have reached their peak of constructive development (adulthood). This branch is called Geriatrics. By careful research about the cell changes in older individuals and carefully planning the food intake the lives of older individuals will not only be prolonged but will be kept useful.

that knowledge will spread among the Japs of the strange practice of white men of not killing noncombatant enemies, and of giving decent food and medical care to wounded combatants. It will be interesting then to observe whether they themselves accept such civilized practices, or choose to remain barbarous.

"At Century's Turn"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

When I was a boy one of my favorite bakery shops was that of A. Maxon on Broadway, at St. James Street. The other day I found a clipping of April 12, 1918, telling how the bakery closed that day after being in operation for more than 20 years.

Not only did Maxon's bake fine bread, but the cup cakes and coffee cakes—I can still taste them.

Another event in April, 1918, was the dissolving by mutual consent of the well known grocery firm of Hendricks & Swart on St. James Street. The business was carried on by Hazzard Swart, following the dissolution of the firm. This grocery was widely known and did a big neighborhood business.

Turning from foods to health affairs, two years later on April 10, 1920, the Board of Health met and appointed Dr. E. H. Loughran of Main Street, to serve as health officer to fill the post left vacant by the death of Dr. Daniel Connelly in March of that year.

Dr. Loughran was one of the best known physicians in Kingston for many years, with his office located on Main Street, near the Kingston Trust Co. building.

One of the best physical directors in the history of the local Y.M.C.A. was Lawrence C. Godfrey who resigned the post on April 25, 1918, to become executive secretary of the Maplewood branch of the Y.M.C.A. in Rochester.

Older members of the "Y" will recall the many years when Mr. Godfrey was active. He also took an active part in the annual minstrel shows.

And speaking of amateur shows the play, "How the Ladies Earned Their Dollar" was presented early in April, 1928, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Ponckhockie Congregational Church.

The play proved so successful that it was repeated on May 2 of that year, in the lecture room of the Wurts Street Baptist Church.

Those in the cast included Mrs. Oscar Goodsell, Mrs. Harold Darling, Miss Jessie M. Parkhurst, Mrs. Almira Gill, Mrs. Fred Levenich, Mrs. John B. Osterhoudt, Mrs. William E. Anderson, Mrs. Abram Rappleyear, also Miss Sadie E. Schutt, Mrs. George Kent, Miss Margaret Leverich, Mrs. Raymond H. Van Valkenburgh and Mrs. Walter Tammany.

The old established Dedrick drug store on Wall Street in March, 1928, was purchased by Fred Schramme, according to an old newspaper clipping, and he took possession on April 1 of that year.

The St. Paul Lutheran Church on Hasbrouck Avenue was officially dedicated with impressive ceremonies on Sunday morning, April 29, 1928.

The dedication sermon was delivered by the Rev. Dr. George A. Romoser of the Bronxville Conventia Collegiate Institute. The Rev. Dr. Romoser was the father of the Rev. Carl A. Romoser, who served the new church as its first pastor.

Dr. Cornelius H. Bishop, widely known dentist of this city, died on May 3, 1928 after a brief illness. He had practiced his profession here for many years with office on the second floor of the Pythian Hall building at Broadway and Thomas Street.

Dr. Bishop was also active in the musical life of the city, and was a charter member of the Men's Glee Club. For years he sang in the choir of the Protestant Presbyterian Church, and also led the singing in the Sunday school.

He was the possessor of a trained voice of exceptional quality, and took part in many amateur performances in the city.

Dr. Bishop made his home in Slighsburg. Fraternally he was a member of Roundout Lodge, No. 243, F. & A. M.

The Indian chief who welcomed the Pilgrims later was buried and killed in Rhode Island by whites under Captain Benjamin Church.

King Raises Question About Sacrifices of Our Youth—Settling Problem of Naval Bases

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, April 7—Shall the sacrifices which American youth have been making in the Pacific to win such islands as Iwo Jima, Okinawa and Tarawa be rendered futile when the time comes to settle the problem of naval bases for our warships, planes and submarines?

This question, which has been wisely raised by Admiral King, commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, is one to which little thought has been given thus far by the American people. The Atlantic Charter, of course, pledges its signatories against "territorial aggrandizement" but by no stretch of the imagination can the tiny islands captured by our armed forces in the Pacific be regarded as in that category. For they represent no opportunity for economic expansion and the total square mileage involved is negligible.

What America needs are security bases for the defense of the United States against any possible invasion by any modern weapons or by devices likely to be perfected in the foreseeable future.

To ask for bases for defense is not to seek territorial aggrandizement or to offend any other power except our enemies. The United States, therefore, should have all the strategic islands in the Pacific Ocean north of the equator. All of these will have been wrested from Japan when this war is won. Here and there are some islands owned by Allied powers which will be needed by the United States to complete the American system of bases, and in those instances doubtless lease arrangements can be made.

Certainly the "lend-lease" bill which will be talked up when the war is over will have a big credit for America on the books of some of our Allies, and the chances are that they will be glad to work out arrangements so that the United States Navy, with its surface, air and submarine forces, can police the Pacific Ocean and stop any aggressor navy in its tracks.

Never again should it be possible for an attack to be made as close to continental United States as Pearl Harbor. The purpose of the Navy in seeking outlying bases is to keep sufficient forces at points far from continental United States so as to minimize the damage from future attacks. The problem of rockets will come in for much consideration in figuring out the need for the best defense against the "seapower" which, as Admiral King defines it, means face ships, plus submarines, aircraft, plus merchant ships, plus naval bases, plus trained personnel, plus the productive capacity to build, equip, operate and maintain them.

If any nation can send out craft carriers or submarines or other warships capable of attacking our island possessions or against the United States itself, it means that strategic bases near enough to get it are essential to us.

The whole scope and scale of naval warfare has been changed from what it was in World War I. Amphibious warfare has come to be recognized as cutting through all previous concepts of military organization on land. While the Army and Navy operate through use of the "task force" idea, it is too early to call for merger of the Army and Navy. The duplication in some respects, such as in purchasing or construction, can be avoided.

Even the much criticized merger between the services cannot be regarded as without some advantages. The stimulus in the competitive spirit world has been a dominating factor in the development of athletes. While rivalry that breaks down cooperation may be condemned as deplorable, rivalry that stimulates each of the armed services to do its utmost for the common cause cannot be wholeheartedly commended.

The tendency to think in traditional lines, however, it is bad when it serves to build up rate services for each new war of war as the inclination to simplify the problem by putting all armed services together in one force so that all sense of individuality and specialization is lost.

Postwar plans for our Army Navy and their respective forces will come in for much discussion, but the more important question now is the settlement of the matter of naval bases. The "leashes" may be the formula where large territories are involved but, even so, in those instances the United States desires to be awarded either by lease or by treaty the use of strategic bases for security.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN GRAPH

Eggplant—a Victory Garden Meat Substitute

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Released by Central Press Association

DID YOU know you could grow a substitute for meat in your Victory garden? Well, egg plant has, at least, the flavor of fried steaks. It is really a tropical vegetable, but will do well in any good garden soil.

Since eggplant is a warm-season plant, which produces best in sunny weather, it is advisable to start the seed indoors or in a coldframe. Transplant the seedlings to small pots, in about 2 months' time the young eggplants will be large enough to set outdoors.

The accompanying Garden Graph illustrates two noteworthy varieties. Black Beauty is an early variety. It is a meaty fruit of large, purple-black color. The fruit is ready about two weeks earlier than other large sorts.

Long Purple eggplant, the latest of the earliest eggplants to mature. The fruit is club-shaped, dark purple in color and 6 to 8 inches long.

For the most part, the eggplant is a vegetable, but there are many types, some of which are eaten as fruit, such as the Long Purple. Can the fruit of the eggplant be eaten as fruit, which is usually when they are 4 to 6 inches in diameter.

Bean Plantings To Be Less
Albany, N. Y., April 7 (AP)—New York's 1945 bean plantings will be about 25 per cent below 1944, the State Agricultural Statistician Service indicated, in announcing dry bean stocks "sharply reduced" from those of last year. Stocks as of March 1, reported yesterday, listed commercial dry beans at 393,000 bags of 100 pounds, compare to 606,000 for the same date in 1944. Farm stocks totaled 98,000 bags compared to 152,000 last year.

Extensive Plans For Ross Park, Town of Esopus

The Board of Directors of Ross Park, Inc. of the Town of Esopus met Thursday evening at the town clerk's office in Port Jervis. Extensive plans were made for the development of the land into a playground and picnic ground.

The grounds will be developed into a ball diamond, play area for small children, picnic grounds with tables and benches and fireplaces for outdoor cooking, horseshoe pitching, football field, tennis court and other field sports. This will necessitate thorough drainage of the property, as well as some grading, and the installation of drinking fountain. There will be provision for supervised play during the vacation months.

The property has been surveyed and detailed plans for these items drawn up. At a later date these plans will be on display in the village so that the public may become acquainted with the intended installations.

Now that such plans have been drawn up it will be necessary to raise funds to finance the work. For this purpose a financial drive will be held during the month April 15 to May 15. Anyone in the Town of Esopus who wishes to make a contribution may do so.

Mrs. Burlin Winchell, treasurer of the Board, has been appointed chairman of the drive. The sum of $2,000 has been designated as the goal for this year to finance the work for the year. Now that the land is available and plans made it is hoped that the people of the town and the village of Port Jervis in which it is located will get behind this drive and put it over the top to provide a playground and recreation area for the use of the town.

The activities committee is planning a schedule of ball games and other activities to make the facilities of the Park available to as many people as possible. These plans in detail will be announced at a later date.

Buffalo State Senator Wojtkowiak Dies Home

Buffalo, N. Y., April 7 (AP)—Stephen J. Wojtkowiak, 49, state senator from the 54th District, died yesterday at his home in suburban Orchard Park after a prolonged illness.

Since his first election to the Senate on the Democratic ticket in 1929, Wojtkowiak had been continuously reelected. During his 16 years' service he had been chairman of the Senate affairs of cities committee and a member of several others including finance, internal affairs, agriculture, insurance and excise.

He sponsored considerable legislation vital to western New York and labor, and fathered the proposal for a state commission to carry out an observance in honor of the Revolutionary War hero, Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, who died October 11, 1829.

During the first World War, he served in France with the Fifth Regiment, Second Division, U. S. Marines, and was wounded and gassed in action.

Married in 1919, he is survived by his widow and two children.

The funeral will be Tuesday.

Union Hose Meeting

Union Hose Company will hold an important special meeting Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. At this meeting arrangements will be made for the honoring of two members of the company, who have given their lives in the service of their country.

Saugerties District Scout Rally

Thursday evening a Boy Scout district rally was held at the Saugerties Auditorium under the general direction of District Commissioner Raymond Quackenbush and Activities Chairman Ben Fain. The program included contests, inhalator and cubbing demonstrations by Troop 31 of Woodstock, signalling and tug-of-war. Raymond Schuler, recipient of Boy Scout Heroism Award, was introduced.

Clarence Dunham, chairman of the Ulster-Greene Council, is also shown planning the Scoutmaster's Key on F. Norton Curtis, scoutmaster of Troop 38, Saugerties. This is the highest award for scoutmasters and is awarded upon the completion of the five-year progressive training plus five years satisfactory service as a scoutmaster or three years as a scoutmaster and two years as a commissioner. This is said to be the first award of its kind in the Ulster-Greene Council.

Boy Scout Rally At Saugerties Held Thursday

Thursday evening a large audience witnessed the annual Saugerties District Boy Scout rally in the Municipal Auditorium, Saugerties, with about 125 Scouts and Cub Scouts participating. Prior to the rally contests, Scout Raymond Schuler, of Troop 6, Kingston was introduced, after Ray and Quackenbush, district commissioner, had told of Scout Schuler receiving the heroism award from the National Court of Honor.

Clarence Dunham, chairman of the Ulster-Greene Council training committee, presented the scoutmaster's key to F. Norton Curtis, scoutmaster of Troop 38, Saugerties. This key is believed to be the first such award ever presented in this council and represents the highest award to scoutmasters who have completed five years of progressive training in leadership and who have served satisfactorily as scoutmaster for five years.

Blue Law Is Liberalized
Governor Dewey vetoed today a bill which would have liberalized Sunday Blue Laws to permit "non-business" work at home "in an orderly manner and without interference with the repose and religious liberty of the community."

The present law prohibits all Sunday work except that which is "essential during the day for good order, health or comfort of the community."

"From the language of the proposed amendment a 'N.Y. News' said, 'it is rather difficult to tell what effect it would have upon the construction of the section of the Penal Law and related sections by the courts.'

The bill was an outgrowth of an incident last October when Raymond Schuler of Saugerties was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge when he objected to police officers' order to stop his Sunday work of painting walls on his house. The charge was withdrawn after public opinion was aroused.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Scout-O-Rama

According to Floyd Spencer, scoutmaster of Troop 12, he has many followers of John Burroughs in his troop, as evidenced by the fact that at the Kingston District Scout-O-Rama on April 14, at the State Armory on Manor avenue, they are going to demonstrate the merit badge requirements for reptile study with an exhibition of snakes (real), turtles (real), toads (also real). Troop 12 claims to have the largest frog ever captured in Ulster county. They will also exhibit fangs, rattles and skins of reptiles. The work on this particular phase will be done by the following scout naturalists, Ralph Shapiro, James Brown and William McGinnis.

The electric merit badge will be demonstrated by Scouts James Decker and James Hanes. They will show various hookups, appliances, with electric symbols. The scouts will make magnets right in their booth and will give the visiting public an opportunity of trying their hand with long and short circuits.

Other members of Troop 12 will demonstrate the requirements of the radio merit badge, by setting up various amateur sets. They will also display their new troop truck cart, of which all are proud and which can be seen almost daily on the streets of the city loaded with scrap paper and pushed or pulled by scouts. Also on display will be a rather unusual first aid kit, cabinet and stretcher.

Herbert DeKay, Kingston district chairman, is urging all members of the Kingston district committee to attend the April meeting, which will be held in the school hall, St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, Monday night at 8 o'clock.

It is desired to clear up final details concerning the Scout-O-Rama, which will be a departure from the usual type of rally; also preliminary arrangements for the June Camporee will be discussed. A number of other activities are to be taken up at the meeting. This will be the last district meeting Scout Executive Jack Magee will attend.

Phoenician Investiture

Investiture ceremonies for new Boy Scout Troop No. 60 will be held at St. Francis DeSales hall, Phoenicia, Tuesday night, April 10 at 8 o'clock.

County Judge John M. Cashin will give a talk on scouting. The program will include: Pledge of allegiance, led by Reginald Every; invocation, the Rev. F. W. Stine; presentation of charter, Earl R. Allen, assistant scout executive; presentation of commission to members troop committee, Reginald Every, district organization committee chairman; presentation scoutmaster's commission, the Rev. Arthur Hansen, district commissioner; investiture of scouts, James Riley, scoutmaster; technical movie, "Scout Trails to Citizenship"; benediction, the Rev. Edward Barry.

Philip Gordon will act as master of ceremonies and the troop charter will be received by William Weyman, district chairman.

Training Course

The second meeting of the scouters training course for the Kingston district, Boy Scouts, will be held at the municipal auditorium on Monday night at 7:45 o'clock.

A wide variety of subjects will be presented. Members will see a boy officer investiture ceremony dramatized by one of the patrol; close attention will be given to the patrol method and how to select patrol leaders; there will be a game period and then the various patrols will meet separately to plan and analyze an ideal scout patrol meeting.

Assistant Executive Earl Allen will discuss the relationship of headquarters staff and commissioners staff to the scoutmasters. Council activities, such as camporee, scout week, career, finance campaign and training courses will be covered. There also will be a discussion of local and national policies of the Boy Scouts of America.

An attendance of nearly 40 men at the first course meeting broke all records for the Kingston district. Other sessions will follow on the course, and Director Floyd Spencer urges them to attend the meeting Monday night. William Taylor of Rosendale, has served as patrol leader and Finance-Patrol as simple as assisting the director. Thomas Culver and Clarence Wolfenbarger are faculty advisers.

Japanese Cabinet Organizes to Din Of U. S. Air Attack

Eastern War Time (8 p. m. Japanese Time).

Superforts Delay Organization
Superfortresses, credited with a large part in the fall of Koko's cabinet, today were instrumental in delaying formation of a new government, the Japanese admitted.

A Domei News Agency broadcast reported Suzuki's efforts to form a new cabinet were "delayed" when Tokyo and Nagoya were raided by fighter escorted B-29's, but after the attack was over Suzuki prevailed upon Matsuzaka to remain in that position. Matsuzaka's appointment was the first announced since the premier-designate took over the task of forming a cabinet.

A previous dispatch said the raid on Tokyo lasted about an hour and a half. A large part of the criticism which led to Koko's fall stemmed from the devastating attacks by the American bombers on the principal cities of Japan.
